

Wylie Rec Center Hosting Holiday Break Camps

Wylie, Texas, Dec. 12, 2016 – Wylie Recreation Center is hosting a “Let it Go”-themed camp Dec. 19-23 from 8 am to 5:30 pm. Kids age 5 – 12 years are invited to take part in this holiday break camp that will spark critical thinking, enhance creativity, and boost problem-solving skills, all while having fun designing their own ice palace, creating a snowy mountain for sleigh rides, and building their own Olaf. Cost is $200.

The Sewing and Stitching camp, from Dec. 27-30, 9 am to noon, is for kids age 8 to 14. Kids will stay warm during winter break while enhancing fine motor skills, boosting reading comprehension, and increasing problem-solving skills. They’ll learn how to operate a sewing machine to create a scarf, beany, fleece pajama pants, and a stuffed animal. Participants should bring a sewing machine; a few are available upon request. Cost is $100 plus $35 supply fee, payable at the first class.

Army Games and Dodgeball will be Dec. 27 – 30, from 1 to 4 pm. Up for a little competition and a whole lot of fun? Rise to this challenge, packed with physical and mental might. Feel a sense of team pride, gain sportsmanship skills, and enhance strategic thinking. New teams and games each day introduce variations of classics like dodgeball and Capture the Flag. Kids should wear athletic clothes and tennis shoes. It’s for kids age 6 – 12 and costs $99 per child.

Registration for these or any rec center activities can be done online at <https://apm.activecommunities.com/wylie> or in person at Wylie Recreation Center, 300 Country Club Rd., Building 200, Wylie. Call 972-516-6360 for more information.
